From the Harlem Courant, dated April 17.

Vienna, April 4.

PRince Eugene of Savoy has receiv'd a Bill of Exchange for a conſiderable Sum of Money to be employ'd in carrying on the War in Italy, from the Queen of England. That Prince's Regiment is order'd to be augmented to 2000 Men, and abundance of briſk Fellows are forward in offering themſelves to be liſted in it. The Marqueſs del Valto and 5 other Neapolitan Noblemen have Commiſſions given them for raiſing each a Regiment. The Treaty between the Emperor and the King of Pruſſia, by which the latter is oblig'd to ſend 5000 Men into His Imperial Majeſties Service, (above his Contingent towards the Army of the Empire,) is concluded. They write from the Confines that the Governors of the Turkiſh Frontier Places have, purſuant to an Order from the New Grand Viſier, given Aſſurance of maintaining Friendſhip and good Correſpondence with us; Upon which this Court has reſolv'd to ſend ſome old Regiments into Italy, and order the new rais'd Forces to ſupply their Places on our Confines.

From the Amſterdam Courant, dated April 17.

Ratisbon, April 9. The Bavarian Envoy having within a few Days deſir'd of a ſudden that Count Stirum ſhould give an Aſſurance, that he would not attempt to poſſeſs himſelf of the Bridge or Gates of this City; and the Deliberations on that Propoſal being drawn out into ſome Length, ſo that it was not immediately comply'd with, on the 7th in the Evening the Elector of Bavaria took Poſſeſſion of the Stone Bidge, the Wooden Bridge, and the Gates of this City, and the next Morning poſted 2 Battallions in the City it ſelf; but has promis'd to evacuate it, provided the Emperor ſend from Vienna before the end of this Month ſuch an Aſſurance as was demanded of Count Stirum ratified by His Imperial Majeſty. Thus this City and the Diet of the Empire aſſembled in it is in the Hands of the Elector of Bavaria. The Proteſtant Envoys cannot but reflect on theſe Proceedings, and have intimated not obſcurely that ſuch an Aſſurance from Count Stirum might have been obtain'd without Difficulty or Delay. 'Tis taken Notice of likewiſe, that the Burghers who betook themſelves to their Arms and ſtood upon their Defence, were ſharply forbidden to make any Reſiſtance; at which ſome of the Burghers were ſo incens'd, that before the Faces of the Magiſtrates they broke their Arms in Pieces againſt the Ground.

Hailbron, April 9. 'Tis advis'd that General Shlick with the Forces he commands is advanc'd to Braunnau, whither the Elector of Bavaria is marching to oppoſe him with 15000 Men. On the 7th General Stirum broke up likewiſe, and 'tis ſaid bent his March towards Ratisbon.

Frankfort, April 12. Letters from Ratisbon and other Places adviſe, That that City was given up to the Bavarian on the 8th; ſince which that Elector is march'd againſt General Schlick.

From the Paris Gazette, dated April 14.

Strasburg, April 4. On the 2d of this Month the Sieur de Treſſemanes return'd hither from Verſailles. All the Troops continue in their Quarters, excepting 2 Battallions of the Regiment of Navarre, which are ſent to Fort-Louis. Recruits arrive daily, and Arms and Cloaths are diſtributed among the Soldiers. The Dutch Troops which are come into the Lower Alſatia to the Number of 15000 Men, have made no Motion yet. The Prince of Baden, having ſent 4 Regiments of Horſe to this ſide of the Rhine, has put the reſt of his Cavalry into Quarters; his Infantry is poſted in his Retrenchments at Stolhoffen, and he himſelf is gone to Raſtad.

Metz, April 4. On the 1ſt the Marſhal de Tallard arriv'd here from Thionville; Great part of the Troops he commands have been in motion theſe 5 or 6 days, and are to be joyn'd by thoſe that were quarter'd at Sarlouis and along the Sarre. All theſe Troops are to rendezvous at Plaesbourg with 16 Pieces of Cannon and a great number of Waggons, and to day the Marſhal de Tallard will ſet out from hence. We have advice that the Enemy's Troops which were about Traerbach, are gone to joyn the Prince of Baden.

From the Paris Gazette a la main, April 13.

The Army of the Marſhal de Villars has paſs'd the Rhine at Hunninghen and Neuburg. It is compos'd of 60 Battallions and 70 Squadrons. The Troops that are to remain in Alſatia on each ſide of the Rhine, under the Command of the Marſhal de Tallard are already arriv'd in the Poſts they are to guard.

We are juſt now inform'd that of the Army of the Marſhal de Villars 4 Battalions and 31 Squadrons have paſs'd the Bridge of Hunninghen, 14 Battallions and 8 Squadrons that of Rheinau, 33 Battallions and as many Squadrons that of Kehl: That in all 61 Battallions and 88 Squadrons are to paſs over; But that no more will march to joyn the Elector of Bavaria than the Number firſt mention'd.

From the Amſterdam Courant, dated April 17.

Raſtad, April 9. Laſt Night the French paſs'd over the Rhine at Hunninghen, Cappel, and Rheinau, and more of them lye ready to paſs over at Strasburg: They Deſign to divide their Forces into 3 Bodies, one to attempt to march through the Kintzinger Dale to joyn the Bavarians; another to attack our Lines at Behl; and the third is to be a Flying Camp to have an Eye to our Detachments in Alſatia. Prince Louis of Baden has already ſent ſome Regiments to reinforce the Troops poſted to defend the Kintzinger Dale; and is drawing all his Forces together in order to fruſtrate the Deſigns of the Enemy.

Frankfort, April 11. The French have mark'd out a Camp near Strasburg, which is ſecur'd with Retrenchments; from whence 'tis conjectur'd that a Body of Troops is to take Poſt there to obſerve the Imperial and Dutch Forces that are in the Lines between Lauterburg and Croon Weiſſenburg, and which receive Reinforcements daily. Prince Lewis of Baden is at preſent at Raſtad, where he has held a Council of War with ſome Head Officers. Baron Thungen is gone to Lauterburg to take a View of that Poſt and the Lines.

Cologne,

Cologne, April 13. The Hereditary Prince of Heſſe Caſſel accompanied by General Tettau, paſs'd through this Place on the 10th, to draw together a Body of about 5000 Heſſians near Rynfelts, with them to return and aſſiſt in the Siege of Bonn. The Garriſon of which Place is reckon'd at preſent to be 4000 Men, tho' on information that 12 or 1500 more are ready in the Country of Luxemburg to march by the way of Saffenburg, and from thence will endeavour to get into Bonn under the Conduct of the Famous La Croix, Order is ſent to the Confederate Forces quarter'd in the Eyſel and the adjacent Country, to draw together and prevent that Deſign of the Enemy.

Weſel, April 14. Yeſterday General Coehorn went up the River to Cologne, being follow'd by 100 Veſſels laden with 100 Pieces of Artillery Great and Small, 30 Mortars for Bombs, and a great number of ſmall Mortars to throw Grenadoes, all to be employ'd againſt Bonn. Yeſterday Morning a Party of 28 Men made an Excurſion out of Gelder towards Udem, but were met with by one of ours, who kill'd 6 and took the other 22.

Maeſtricht, April 13. Count Tilly is about to go hence to the Lower Rhine; The Duke of Marlborough arriv'd here to day, and was welcom'd with a general Salvo of the Cannon on the Walls, from hence his Grace will ſpeedily go to Liege, to draw together an Army on that ſide.

Hague, April 16. This day General Obdam went from hence towards Gelderland and Cologne. and to morrow Monſieur Auverquerque goes hence to Maeſtricht.

From the Leiden Courant, dated April 18.

Amſterdam, April 16. Letters from Mittau of the 30th of March adviſe, That a Body of Swedes which march'd from thence (under the command of Count Leeuwenhaupt) towards Birzen, attack'd Oginski and the Muſcovites that have joyn'd his Forces, at Salaten 2 Miles diſtant from Birzen, and after a Fight of 3 hours won a compleat Victory, putting the Poliſh Infantry led by Oginski to flight, cutting off moſt of the Muſcovites, and taking 11 pieces of Cannon and a rich Booty.

Letters of yeſterday from Roterdam ſay, that at 6 in the Evening advice came thither, that the Hull Fleet was come to an Anchor in 10 Fathom Water in ſight of Scheveling, but that 2 Ships of that Fleet were ſtranded. Some Engliſh Men of War are cruiſing before Dunkirk.

From the Paris Gazette a la main, April 13.

The Pope has ſent Letters to the Prelates of Languedoc, in which he Authorizes all Eccleſiaſticks of that Province to carry Arms to defend themſelves againſt the Rebels. Some of which met together lately in a Mill near Niſmes, but were ſurpriz'd by the Marſhal de Montrevel, above 60 of them were kill'd, a great Number taken, and the reſt diſpers'd themſelves.

From the Harlem Courant, dated April 17.

Amſterdam, April 16. Letters from Geneva and other Places tell us, that the Camiſards of the Sevennes gain frequent Advantages over the King's Troops; that they have lately taken the Abbot of Allaiſe; that their Number encreaſes; that ſome of the Neighbouring People begin to riſe; and that all the Inhabitants of 3 Roman Catholick Dioceſſes have taken Arms, and joyn'd the Camiſards, in Order to recover their Ancient Liberties. And from Luſanna 'tis confirm'd that the Camiſards have taken a Waggon loaded with Ammunition for the King's Troops, and have cut off the greateſt Part of 3 Companies of the ſame Troops.
